V: Determining the Allocation of Seats

Section 35
Tallying vote results

When the number of votes recorded at the election for each political party or independent candidate has been tallied, the Chief Electoral Officer shall determine, in the manner provided in this part, the candidates who shall be elected.

Section 36
District representatives

The candidate with the highest number of votes in the district shall be the district representative. In the event that two candidates receive the same highest number of votes, the candidate to be awarded the seat shall be decided by the toss of a coin.

Section 37
National representation
37.1 For the purposes of this Section:

   (a) an independent candidate shall be deemed to be the candidate of a political party which has nominated only one candidate for election as a national representative; and

   (b) any votes recorded for that independent candidate shall be deemed to be votes recorded for that party.

37.2 In this Section, an “unexcluded party” means a political party which has not been excluded in accordance with the rules set out in subsection 37.4 under the heading “Stage 3”.

37.3 A reference in this section to the number of vacancies to be filled is a reference to the number 75, minus the total number of candidates of excluded parties who have already been elected.

37.4 The number of candidates elected from each political party is to be determined in accordance with the following rules.

Stage 1

For each unexcluded party, calculate or recalculate (as the case requires) the ratio \( \frac{A}{B} \), where:

A represents the number of votes recorded for the political party concerned; and

B is determined by dividing the total number of valid votes recorded for all the unexcluded political parties which have nominated candidates for election as national representatives by the number of vacancies to be filled (disregarding any remainder).

Go to Stage 2.

Stage 2

Determine if any unexcluded political party has nominated a number of candidates smaller than the ratio \( \frac{A}{B} \) calculated or recalculated in relation to the party at Stage 1.

If there are any such parties, go to Stage 3.

If there are no such parties, go to Stage 4.
Stage 3

If an unexcluded political party has nominated a number of candidates smaller than the ratio \((A/B)\) calculated or recalculated in relation to the party at Stage 1:

(a) all of the party’s candidates are elected; and

(b) the party is thereupon excluded.

Unless all vacancies have been filled, go to Stage 1.

Stage 4

Substage 1

For each unexcluded party, the number of candidates elected shall be calculated in accordance with the formula:

\[ X = \frac{A}{B} + C \]

in which:

X represents the said number;

A represents the number of votes recorded for the political party concerned;

B is determined by dividing the total number of valid votes recorded for all the unexcluded political parties which have nominated candidates for election as national representatives by the number of vacancies to be filled (disregarding any remainder).

C represents the value 1 if a seat is allocated to the political party concerned in terms of Substage 2, and the value 0 if no seat is so allocated to the political party concerned, and any remainder obtained in calculating the value of \((A/B)\) is disregarded except for the purposes of Substage 2, in which such remainder shall be referred to as unallocated votes.

Substage 2

If, when the value of \((A/B)\) has been determined in terms of Substage 1 for each unexcluded political party, the number of seats represented by the aggregate of all such values is less than the number of vacancies to be filled, the number representing the shortfall shall be allocated on the basis of one seat each to an equal number of political parties, being those political parties having the greatest numbers of unallocated votes.
Substage 3

If, in the application of the provisions of Substage 2, only one seat remains to be allocated and two or more political parties have an equal number of unallocated votes, and such political parties have more unallocated votes than any other political party that has not been allocated a seat at that Substage, the remaining seat shall be allocated to that political party with the equal number of unallocated votes that has received the lowest total number of votes in the election.
