

Action for Peacekeeping+ Plan

@UNPEACEKEEPING

ACTION
FOR PEACEKEEPING

1 - Introduction

The objective of Action for Peacekeeping+ (A4P+) priorities is to accelerate progress on the implementation of the Declaration of Shared Commitments on UN Peacekeeping (Action for Peacekeeping, or A4P) endorsed by Member States in 2018. It is what DPO commits to doing over the next two years together with partner departments (DOS, DMSPC and DPPA) and field missions, to accelerate the implementation of the A4P agenda with support from Member States.

A4P+ consists of seven priority areas that require dedicated senior leadership attention and focused, concrete and rapid responses to advance the entire A4P agenda. These have been determined on the basis of a collective analysis of achievements, gaps and challenges in taking A4P forward since 2018 and are informed by recent evaluations and reviews of UN peacekeeping.

A4P+ is therefore the implementation strategy of A4P for 2021-2023 and this plan provides the deliverables needed to address the challenges identified under the seven A4P+ priority areas, the indicators of progress, and implementation arrangements for operationalizing A4P+. Together they reflect DPO's commitment to A4P and its continued effort to improve peacekeeping's impact, with resolve and in a spirit of transparency and partnership.

As such:

- A4P+ does not replace A4P. A4P remains the core agenda of the Secretary-General for UN peacekeeping. The Declaration of Shared Commitments, endorsed by 154 Member States and four partner organizations, continues to be the roadmap for strengthening UN peacekeeping.
- The A4P+ priority areas relate to specific challenges that prevent, undermine or slow progress of the entire, broader A4P agenda. By focusing our efforts on the essentials, A4P+ enables us to accomplish more on A4P.
- Each of the seven A4P+ priorities spans several, if not all, A4P commitments and any effort to address any of the seven A4P+ priority areas will have positive multiplier effects across several A4P commitments.
- The Women, Peace and Security (WPS) Agenda and innovative, data-driven and technology-enabled peacekeeping have been mainstreamed across all seven A4P+ areas. Accordingly, both dimensions have also been reflected in this plan. The Strategy for the Digital Transformation of UN Peacekeeping will be instrumental to taking forward the latter.
- A4P+ and the A4P+ Plan speak to what DPO and field missions need to do to enable progress against the broader A4P agenda. This recognizes that the overall success of UN peacekeeping requires engagement and support from other UN entities and external partners.
- The A4P+ Plan does not include all deliverables undertaken or envisioned by DPO or its field missions, including mandated tasks. These remain as relevant as ever and must continue. Instead, the plan focuses only on the few deliverables that will enable progress under A4P+ priority areas, which in turn will enable progress on the broader programme of work.
- Finally, the last section of this plan presents its monitoring and implementation arrangements. Ultimately, sustained leadership, oversight and support will determine the plan's viability and drive its success.

2 - A4P+ in context

Over its 70+ years of experience, UN peacekeeping has proven to be a highly resilient, adaptive, and cost-effective response to armed conflicts. This effectiveness has been reaffirmed in the face of COVID-19. UN peacekeeping remains a critical contributor to peace, and a powerful demonstration of multilateral cooperation, but also faces unprecedented global challenges, including the following:

- An increasingly complex threat landscape, comprised of both traditional and non-traditional security threats such as pandemics, the use of technologies, climate change, and growing socio-economic inequalities, among others. These threats test the boundaries of the scope and effectiveness of UN peacekeeping;
- An increase in the number of internationalized intra-state conflicts with a blurring of the lines between political, criminal, and terrorist agendas, often coupled with fragmented armed groups and intercommunal violence at the local level, challenges UN peacekeeping's traditional conflict prevention, management and resolution tools and capacities;
- Heightened geopolitical tensions reflected in a divided UN Security Council, a frayed global consensus on principles and values, and some skepticism over the relevance and impact of external interventions, including UN peace operations, at times negatively affect mandate renewals, budget negotiations, and thematic debates over peacekeeping.

UN peacekeeping operations nowadays encompass very different realities, from limited observation mandates to complex multidimensional operations comprising thousands of uniformed and civilian peacekeepers. All these “models” of operations form part of an expanding toolbox, which also includes the provision of support to non-UN operations, notably in Africa. At the same time, several special political missions have been authorized by the Security Council in recent years, including in Colombia, Yemen, and Sudan, and have benefited from DPO's expertise and experience.

In the past five years, the UN has transitioned and closed some of its largest peacekeeping operations - in Côte d'Ivoire, Haiti, Liberia and Darfur (the one hybrid operation with the African Union) – lasting 13 years on average. This has resulted in a contraction in the annual peacekeeping budget to approximately six billion dollars. This has allowed UN peacekeeping to refocus its efforts and to improve its effectiveness through the implementation of a series of reforms – including the peace and security architecture, management, and development reforms – while strengthening our partnerships with others within the UN family, including with DPPA, DOS, DMSPC as well as with UN agencies, funds, and programmes, and beyond.

As a recognized tool for the maintenance of international peace and security and an expression of international solidarity, UN peacekeeping benefits from a unique international legitimacy, sustained by the partnership between the Security Council, the General Assembly, in particular the Fifth Committee and the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations or C-34, the UN Secretariat, Troop and Police contributing countries, as well as host country governments and the populations it serves. Also critical are close links with regional and multilateral partners.

A4P has yielded many tangible improvements in the way peacekeeping missions, with partners, deliver on their mandates.<sup>1</sup> A4P+ priorities, like A4P thematic commitments, build on existing reforms and are also linked to new workstreams and initiatives which have emerged to address current challenges facing UN peacekeeping. A4P+ is part of a renewed collective engagement to address outstanding challenges and strengthen and enhance the impact of peacekeeping.

4 - Monitoring and implementation

DPO's leadership is fully committed to the full realization of these deliverables by the relevant DPO entities. Based on past experience and the need to avoid duplication with other reporting obligations, the monitoring approach established for this A4P+ Plan includes the following dimensions:

- 1) Incorporation of all deliverables into relevant unit/division/mission work plans, to be reported on according to established procedures and timelines – it will be the responsibility of the leadership of each DPO entity and each field mission to support and oversee the realization of these deliverables;
- 2) Establish a monitoring framework that monitors progress against the seven A4P+ priority areas;
- 3) To retain flexibility and learn from, and respond to, the diverse environments and realities of DPO and peacekeeping operations, the plan may be adjusted, if needed, after one year of implementation;
- 4) DPO will review implementation of the Plan on a regular basis – it will be the responsibility of each member of the senior leadership in DPO and in field missions to assess implementation, including obstacles, within their respective areas of oversight;
- 5) The DPO planning unit will coordinate and consolidate semi-annual progress reports for internal and external dissemination.

Beyond this internal approach, the support of Member States and peacekeeping partners, including regional organizations, are indispensable to the Secretariat's efforts to implement A4P+ priorities. The Secretariat will therefore continue to regularly engage with them on A4P+ implementation.

In particular, the upcoming Peacekeeping Ministerial in December 2021 in Seoul, like the previous one, will provide an opportunity to showcase Member State support to UN peacekeeping and to advance A4P implementation, including through the lens of A4P+ priorities.
